Project Name: Receiving Center

Project Identification Number	FRF_RECCTRHMHI

Project Description	"The University of Utah Huntsman Mental Health Institute (HMHI), partnering with Salt Lake County and numerous private donors and other community partners is actively constructing a new non-refusal, 24/7/365 Behavioral Health Receiving Center. It will be centrally located in South Salt Lake. It will have 32 23-hour, short-term observation beds where individuals in behavioral health crisis will be received, deescalated, triaged and referred to the most appropriate level of care. There will be 24 co-located hospital beds where patients can be moved, if necessary. A receiving center simplifies assessing a host of challenging behavioral health conditions and transferring these individuals to where those needs can be appropriately and most effectively addressed. While HMHI actively constructs and prepares its receiving center, working with Salt Lake County and local law enforcement, it is currently operating a smaller, 6 chair, pilot version at the HMHI Hospital on the University campus. This ARPA program would expand that pilot by 8 additional 23-hour observation chairs and allow HMHI to provide more of this needed service immediately. To make space for these additional chairs, construction will be required to adjust the current location. It is hoped that construction would begin in January 2023 and the 8 chairs would be in operation by April 2023."

In the nearly two years since, the courts have worked towards establishing some on-line functions and allowed extremely limited in-person trials. This has greatly reduced the capacity of the entire justice system. As a result, the filing and resolution of cases has been restricted creating an enormous backlog throughout both adult and juvenile courts. Additionally, the new online operation of the hearings that are proceeding has placed new and novel burdens on the lawyers and support staff.

Project Description	Salt Lake County Housing and Community Development (HCD) has administered the Green and Healthy Homes Initiative (GHHI) program for the last ten years. Each home that is assisted receives a complete Healthy Homes Assessment to identify deficiencies which can cause health issues, a disproportionate energy burden or unsafe living conditions. Within GHHI, we administer an Aging in Place Program to fully retrofit a home for accessibility and mobility throughout the home, thereby allowing the elderly or physically disabled to remain in their homes and neighborhoods. For the existing program, HUD funds are used for loans or grants or a combination of both to complete the home retrofits. This program would be an extension of the existing GHHI program to reach more households in need, particularly those impacted by COVID-19. In 2014 among Salt Lake County residents aged 65 or older, the rate of emergency calls due to fall injuries was 458.6 per 10,000 and the subsequent hospitalization rate was 130.0 per 10,000. In 2016, the fall mortality rate was 5.4 per 10,000. Intended outcomes: For the 144-193 Aging in Place projects, medical and health care cost saving of $28.8M-$38.6M (average national indicator from John Hopkins University). In addition, the program provides untold housing cost savings for the clients and a higher quality of life.

Vaccination remains the strongest protection against severe illness and death. Data from 2/1/2021 through 11/19/2021 indicates unvaccinated Utah residents are 7.9 times greater risk of dying and 6.6 times greater risk of being hospitalized due to COVID-19. As of 11/21/2021, 62% of the Salt Lake County eligible population is fully vaccinated. The SLCoHD's will reach the goal by increasing COVID-19 vaccination rates throughout the entire population of Salt Lake County with an emphasis on populations with health disparities. - The SLCoHD's goal includes working with healthcare partners, pharmacies, community based organizations, health equity partners, and political leaders. 	The Jail Resource Reentry Program (JRRP) helps former inmates navigate the transition from jail back into the community by offering access to services and the support they may need to stabilize, stay healthy, and regain self-sufficiency. A need exists to better send clients out of the jail with as much information specific to their needs and prevent them from returning to the same circumstances that led to their arrest. The project includes Criminal Justice Services, Legal Defenders Association, and the Sheriff's Office. The Jail Reentry Program (JRRP) was conceived as a high-impact solution within a defined target population to reduce recidivism in Salt Lake County. The JRRP project proposal is a result of data-informed decisions and a commitment to the continued use of analytics and partnership engagement to reduce recidivism, inspire sound public policy, and provide a model that promotes good governance through independent, non-partisan research and innovative programs. When released from SLCo Jail, every individual enters the release area where JRRP will be located and staffed by CJS and LDA. Every individual released will be offered services by JRRP staff prior to exiting the secure SLCo Jail release area. Once engaged by JRRP staff, a target population determination will be made, and, if appropriate and engaged, the individual will be invited to a safe JRRP discussion area where warm handoff services can be provided. The duration of interaction between JRRP staff and the reentrant will vary by need and engagement level, with a predicted range of 5 minutes to one hour, and an average of 30 minutes. JRRP will provide two categories of services: 1) basic supplies and 2) warm handoffs. The provision of basic supplies is intended to provide an engagement tool to delay the target population's departure long enough for JRRP staff to intervene and engage, while providing the added benefit of allowing individuals who do not meet the target population criteria to more easily return to their lives by providing for an immediate need. The basic supply category of services includes access to email, phone calls, free Wi-Fi, phone charging stations, snacks, water, female personal hygiene products, a safe place to wait for transportation, transportation services, bus tokens, and onsite donated clothing items. Printed pocket resource guides summarizing warm handoff services will be provided in English and Spanish.

Once the target population is engaged with JRRP staff, warm handoffs to more intensive services are expected to include, but are not limited to, needs-based referrals specific to the 100% SPMI target population and secondary risk factors, including mental health, substance abuse, detox, case management, legal assistance, and emergency shelter services. Additional assistance will be provided for Adult Probation and Parole check in, court dates, warrant checks, domestic violence treatment and counseling, Medication Assistance Treatment, Narcan/Naloxone kits, enrollment assistance for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, Medicaid, Department of Workforce Services information, homeless resources, and housing referrals. LDA specifically offers attorney case-clearers, attorney of the day, reentry coordinators, cross agency partnerships, reentry coordinators, and first appearance court coordinators.

Project Description	Water is essential to life. Without additional water for the growing population, the future quality of life for Salt Lake County (SLCo) residents will decrease. Along with residential development, many other industries rely on water. Water conservation is one of the best methods for preserving and creating the additional needed water supplies. The ARPA funding for this program will be used to enhance and improve countywide water conservation by jointly working with municipalities and water districts. The proposed program is titled Integrated Water Conservation and Land Use Municipal Partnerships. The purpose of the program is to further facilitate water conservation by integrating the land use planning of municipalities and water resources and conservation planning of water districts. The funding for this project would assist both municipalities and water districts through facilitating an integrated process where water conservation is integrated into land use planning. The first phase of the project would include workshops where municipalities and water districts collaborate in creating integrated plans for water conservation. A professional organization would conduct workshops with approximately three to five municipalities and the local water district. Representatives from municipalities, water districts, and stakeholder organizations would work together with facilitators to establish water conservation action plans specific to the needs and opportunities of each municipality.

Project Description	Anticipating a federal vaccine mandate, Mayor Wilson and the Salt Lake County Council determined it is in the best interest of Salt Lake County to provide a vaccine incentive to employees to encourage vaccine uptake. It is imperative that those providing services to the public are healthy and that we minimize time away from work due to illness. The vaccine incentive program addresses both of those concerns. Finally, because Salt Lake County is self-insured for health insurance, helping employees avoid COVID hospitalizations makes financial sense for Salt Lake County.

Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	The employee vaccine incentive program was in direct response to the mitigate the spread of the COVID-19. The high number of COVID-19 cases and low vaccine rate promoted Salt Lake County to offer monetary incentive to its employees. Over 5,000 employees submitted proof of COVID-19 vaccine which we believe helped with the COVID-19 mitigation efforts.
